Dear Contestant,

This is a recap of how finals night will unfold. As the pageant progresses past preliminary competition, the field of contestants will be narrowed to a group of semifinalists, and then a group of finalists in TEEN and in MISS. The semifinalists will compete in Swimsuit (MISS) or Activewear (TEEN) and Evening Gown competitions in order to narrow the field to the finalists. The final contestants will then participate in an on-stage interview. Each of the Teen and Miss finalists will randomly draw 2 questions.

First, they will select a "contestant question." Each of you will need to submit a question that you would like to ask a finalist. You should bring your question to registration and turn it in then. Be sure to include your name and title on your question. The staff will review the questions and select questions in each age division.

The second question to be asked will be the traditional "judge's question." Each of the five judges will submit a question, and each of the finalists will randomly draw one of the judges' questions to answer.

This process will be explained again during orientation, so if you have questions feel free to ask for clarification at that time. In the meantime, please think about various questions and formulate opinions; but speak from your own heart with your own words! Also, please don't forget to write a question that you want asked to one of the finalists.

Have fun, and good luck!

John M. Vannatta, Jr.
Co-Executive Director
